WELCOME TO SACRAMENTO

Dear Valued Visitor,

Welcome to Sacramento! We're so thrilled to have you as our guest during this wonderful season in our city.

If you've never been to Sacramento before—or if it has been several years since your last visit—I urge you to explore the city. Lace up your sneakers with a mural tour from Sacramento Tour Company or get a taste of our cuisine with Local Roots Food Tours. Is pedaling more your speed? Hop aboard the Sac Brew Bike and sample from our explosive craft beer scene or rent one of the many red JUMP bikes around town and see the sights at your leisure. Whatever route you choose, we invite you to get to know the people and places that make Sacramento so special.

We'd like to thank you for choosing our city as your destination and hope that you find Sacramento a place that welcomes visitors with open arms and invites you to consider this your home away from home.

If you have questions about the City of Sacramento during your stay, please don't hesitate to visit us at City Hall, located at 915 I Street, or you can call my office at (916) 808-5300.

Sincerely,

Darrell Steinberg
Mayor
City of Sacramento

GETTING AROUND

Parking Your Car

Sacramento is a very walkable city, but with so much to see and do throughout the region, it helps to have an insider's peek into the best ways to get around.

We know a lot of our visitors drive into Sacramento, and if your hotel doesn't have a parking garage, or you just need to park for dinner or a visit to a museum, there's an easier way than just driving around looking for spots. City parking spots in certain areas can be reserved via the ParkMobile app, letting you better plan what time you leave and be confident that you'll have parking close to your destination.

The ParkMobile app also allows drivers to pay for parking, and if the meter is about to run out, drivers receive an alert on their phones letting them know, with the option to add more money to keep from getting a ticket.

In many places in Sacramento, drivers will see a circular sign with a number and a plus sign in it, such as (2+). That sign means that the rate for parking will go up after the first two hours, and the meters themselves have the information of exact costs.

Public Transit

For those who prefer to leave the car at home and travel around the region and downtown area, the Sacramento Regional Transit operates an array of buses and light rail lines that quickly and efficiently serve most areas visitors wish to go in California's capital.

A mobile-optimized website at m.sact.com allows riders to plan trips and check real-time bus and train locations as well as the next scheduled stops at each station. The mobile site also makes it easy to find information on any delays via its service alerts tab.

When it comes to purchasing and managing tickets, the easiest way is to use the ZipPass mobile app from Sacramento Regional Transit. Tickets can also be purchased at kiosks, but let's face it—you're probably more likely to forget where you put a paper ticket than your smartphone.

Share the Mode

Look for the cherry red Jump bikes and scooters within city limits of Sacramento and West Sacramento. Make sure you've got the app loaded and grab a ride to take you as far as you need to go. Just make sure and park it properly once you've arrived.

BIKE-FRIENDLY SACRAMENTO

THE FALL WEATHER MAKES FOR A GREAT BIKE RIDE, AND SACRAMENTO HAS PLENTY OF WAYS TO MAKE CYCLING AROUND TOWN EASY.

NEED A BIKE MAP?
SACBIKE.ORG

Bike Share—Try a candy-red Jump electric-assist bike at a cost of $1 for 15 minutes. They're stationed at curbside hubs around Sacramento, West Sac and Davis. Download the app and start riding!

Rent Your Wheels—Trek Bicycle in Midtown (2419 K St.) rents bikes—a good option if red's not your color or you need a ride for youngsters. (916) 447-2453

Coollest Bike Racks in Town—Look for local sculptor Gina Rossi's artsy racks around town, including a martini glass by Paragary's (27th and N streets), Day of the Dead by Zocalo (18th and Capitol), a fish in front of Lou's Sushi (28th and P) and a beer bottle opener by New Helvetia Brewing Company (18th and Broadway).

Party Parade—Decorate your ride (think colored lights, streamers), don a crazy hat and join up with Midtown's Bike Party, held the first Friday of the month, in a pedal-powered procession that goes for 10 or 15 miles, usually includes a stop or two, and abides by this mantra: stop at red lights, stay to the right, pack your trash, don't get smashed, ride straight, don't hate. Free! facebook.com/bikepartysacramento

American River Bike Trail—The crown jewel of the Sacramento region, the Jedediah Smith Memorial Trail runs for 32 miles, much of it alongside the American River, from Sacramento's Discovery Park to Folsom. It's a gorgeous ride, and accessible from most parks in the American River Parkway.

NOT EXACTLY A WORKOUT

Hop on the Sac Brew Bike, a 15-seat rolling, peddling party. Start at the brew bike's bar (1519 19th St., with local beer and cider on tap), and expect to visit a variety of downtown and midtown watering holes. sacbrewbike.com

GOOD TO KNOW!

Bikes are allowed on Regional Transit's light rail trains and buses, which are equipped with racks.

MUSIC!

MONDEI & FRIENDS | SHADY LADY SALOON

SOLOMON'S DELICATESSEN

Sacramento's lively K Street recently welcomed its newest tenant, Solomon's Delicatessen. Large glass panels below a colorful restored mural house the former Tower Records location-turned-deli and bar. Upstairs lies the Russ Room—which pays homage to the late Russ Solomon, founder of Tower Records—a '70s chic music venue and art gallery (you'll see some rare images of Jimi Hendrix, The Beatles, The Who, Jim Morrison and other legends) sporting a striped colored felt roof and reflective glass chandeliers. Pick up a pickle 'tini from the bar and catch sets from local artists like Destroy Boys, a punk band that got its start in Sac. The crew at Solomon's aims to keep more than just the deli fresh, planning to swap the art gallery out for a new theme every couple months. 730 K St., (916) 857-8200, solomonsdelicatessen.com

ACE OF SPADES

A staple of Sacramento, Ace of Spades is an all-ages (some exceptions depending on the show) music venue. Generally a packed house of 1,000 showgoers, Ace of Spades offers beer and spirits from four in-house bars, as well as food from the adjacent Cafe Bernardo until 9 p.m. (Tip: Get in line early if you want a seat in the dining area; it fills up quickly!) Catch a variety of acts at Ace of Spades, from national superstars like Snoop Dogg and Mac Demarco to local legend Hobo Johnson. 1417 R St., (916) 930-0220, aceofspadessac.com

HOLY DIVER

From the team that brought Sacramento Ace of Spades comes Holy Diver, an all-ages (some exceptions depending on the show) music venue tattooed with skull art on the outside and rock and metal paraphernalia on the inside. Grab a slice from Pizza Cult and play pinball on the shredder-inspired machines (Iron Maiden, Metallica and AC/DC) before catching a show in the intimate but energetic hall. Rock and metal star at this venue, but Holy Diver hosts a variety of shows. (Tip: Be on the lookout for the Local $5 Showcases, which host local artists for a fun, affordable night.) 1517 21st St., holydiversac.com

SHADY LADY SALOON

Shady Lady Saloon, located in the Historic R Street District, takes guests into the gothic speakeasy upon entry with its red velour furniture, candelabra- and mirror-laden walls and dimly lit aesthetic. All ages are welcome during the day for food and drink, but when the night's musical act takes the black curtained stage at 9 p.m., the shows are 21 and up. Sip on a classic cocktail like the Corpse Reviver #2 and take in tunes from

Sacramento soul, jazz and funk artists. 1409 R St., (916) 231-9121, shadyladybar.com

HARLOW'S RESTAURANT AND NIGHTCLUB

Established in 1982, Harlow's has become a standard for concertgoers in Sacramento. The nightclub and restaurant hosts a variety of artists from big industry names like BJ the Chicago Kid to fun takes on classics like No String Attached's orchestral rendition of Dr. Dre's classic album "2001." The farthest you'll ever be from the stage is 44 feet, providing an intimate musical experience for concertgoers. In addition to a full bar, Harlow's also doubles as a restaurant with a full menu of small plates, sandwiches, pizzas and tacos (Tip: Try the seasonal pizza pie or the "I got five on it" grilled cheese.) Info line: 2708 J St. 916-441-4693, harlows.com

TORCH CLUB

If you're looking for a dive to catch some local music, Torch Club is your spot. String lights illuminate the dimly lit 21-and-over venue, and black-and-white boxer portraits line the wall opposite the bar, worn with character. A black POW/MIA flag, American flag and Sacramento Kings flag hang over the stage, where patrons can listen to local blues artists make the song cry. 904 15th St., (916) 443-2797, torchclub.net

OCTOBER 11-12-13

DISCOVERY PARK

AFTERSHOCK FESTIVAL

Large crowds and loud guitars are set to make soundwaves for Aftershock Festival at Discovery Park Oct. 11–13. Massive headliners including Slipknot, Sum 41, Blink-182, Tool and Korn will be taking the three stages over the course of the rock and metal extravaganza. Food and drink will be aplenty, from barbecue and burgers from Sacramento vendors like Dogtown and Drewski's Hot Rod Sandwiches to Dippin' Dots Ice Cream and Monster Energy drinks. Zippo and Monster Energy will both have interactive booths for fun activities and art, and there will be fundraiser booths for Take Me Home, a non-profit set on saving the lives of homeless animals, and Fxck Cancer and Dyin 2 Live Dreams, non-profit programs hoping to put an end to late-stage cancer diagnosis, and providing VIP experiences for cancer fighters. Aftershock is an all-ages event, but parents are encouraged to bring hearing protection for kids.

GREAT Beer

By Diana Bizjak

(AND SOME
GREAT FOOD
TO GO WITH)

Sacramento residents have been making craft beer since the Gold Rush, but the brew scene has never been more vibrant and exciting than it is now. Home to more than 70 breweries and countless more brewpubs, the city is a hops-filled paradise—if you know where to look. Here are a few places to start.

URBAN ROOTS BREWERY & SMOKEHOUSE

For killer barbecue and a neighborhood block party vibe to go with your beer, there is Urban Roots, a spacious downtown brewery that combines the communal spirit of German Bierhalls with the tastes and smells of a Texas-style smokehouse. While saisons are the specialty, the tap list ranges from crowd-pleasing west coast IPAs to experimental small-batch brews and special guest draughts, all designed to complement the brisket, pulled pork, ribs, collard greens and other Southern favorites on the menu. Owners Peter Hoey and Rob Archie hoped to create a community-oriented space where strangers become friends over a pint and a platter, so this family-friendly brewery regularly plays host to movie nights and encourages hobnobbing with patio picnic table seating. Check out the playful mural by local artist Maren Conrad or the brightly colored tiled walls inside, which keep the highly photogenic space from veering into burly rusticity. 1322 V St., urbanrootsbrewing.com

NEW HELVETIA BREWING COMPANY

The most unabashedly Sacramento brewery in the region has to be New Helvetia, which showcases Sacramento history alongside its strong lineup of hazy IPAs. Tucked between a cluster of restaurants on the edge of Land Park, the unpretentious space is decorated with memorabilia from Buffalo Brewing Company, the Sacramento brewery that became the largest brewery west of the Mississippi upon its opening in 1890. Many of New Helvetia's beers are named after Sacramento landmarks and cultural touchstones, like the Delta Breeze wheat ale and the Midtown Janky saison. They regularly release beers in collaboration with their local competitors along with one-off brews with other Sacramento stars, including a coffee stout with Temple Coffee Roasters and a chocolate porter with chocolatier Ginger Elizabeth Hahn. Since there's no food menu, guests are encouraged to bring in dinner or grab something from one of the food trucks often parked outside. 1730 Broadway, newhelvetiabrew.com

Learn more about Sacramento's beer scene from Urban Roots owner Rob Archie on the Visit Sacramento Podcast.

AT EASE BREWING

New to the Sacramento beer scene, this little brewery has already garnered a following amongst a very specific demographic: local veterans. Owner and brewmaster Col. Mike Conrad served in the army for 27 years before retiring to civilian life. Hints at Conrad's military background are peppered throughout the dark and snug Midtown storefront: ammo crate lids become tasting trays, for instance, and the tap handles are decorated with uniform ribbons. But Conrad and his family, who can be found pouring at the bar, wanted to avoid anything gimmicky and garish, so don't expect camo, weapons, or rah-rah Americana. The focus remains on the beer. After home brewing for 20 years, Conrad has designed a tap list that satisfies the hopheads but doesn't shy away from more adventurous pickings like the Black Hawk, a black saison, or the Top of the Line, a lemon coriander wheat ale.

1825 I St., ateasebrewing.com

THE SHACK

Though it opened as a roadside root beer stop in 1931, The Shack has found new life in its current incarnation as a beloved hangout spot for beer lovers. This pup-friendly hangout is a Sacramento institution, equally appreciated for its chill atmosphere as it is for its large selection of Belgian beers. With funky decor, live music on the weekends, and a menu of gut-busting burgers and sandwiches, The Shack would be perfectly at home on the edge of a beach boardwalk somewhere, luring in sun-drenched revelers for a cold St. Feuillien saison and a round of fries. When you're tired of beer pretension and flash-in-the-pan trends, The Shack welcomes you with open arms and a dizzying array of lambics and Flemish ales. Given its accessible menu and laid-back character, The Shack is also a good spot to bring the kids.

5201 Folsom Blvd., eastsacshack.com

ALARO CRAFT BREWERY

If the thought of another brewpub menu weighted down with burgers and pretzels makes you ready to give up drinking entirely, Alaro is there to get you back in the game. Owners Annette and Ray Ballesterro teamed up with head brewer Chris Keeton to develop a roster of elegant and high-quality handcrafted beers that are just as elevated and timeless as the Iberian-style tapas they are meant to pair with. Their flagship Castillo IPA recently won a gold at the Great American Beer Festival, and is a refreshing partner to their flagship dish, the seafood paella. Other menu highlights include the pulpo gallegos, gambes al ajillo, elotes, and pan con tomate. Equal parts brewery and restaurant, this full-service Midtown gastropub is a destination for beer lovers and teetotalers alike.

2004 Capitol Ave., alarobrewing.com

CAPITAL HOP SHOP

Located in a refurbished auto garage in the heart of downtown, Capital Hop Shop delivers one of the most curated craft beer selections in the city. With more than 30 beers on constant rotation, Hop Shop manages to cover just about every major beer trend at any given time—did someone say milkshake IPAs?—while also offering a range of experimental, seasonal and imported craft brews, as well as whatever the owners and staff are into on any given day. With such a heavy emphasis on craft and a propensity for featuring rare releases, Hop Shop has secured itself a devoted following of serious beer enthusiasts. But with its friendly staff and satisfying menu of the buffalo wings and mac and cheese variety, this brewpub attracts state workers, neighborhood residents, and hungry passersby with equal ease.

Oak Park

RIRE

Shopping obsessives will love Sacramento's historic Oak Park neighborhood. It offers a slew of boutiques, all clustered in and near the Broadway Triangle, architect Ron Vrilakas' stylish mixed-used development. Here's a look at some of our favorite places.—Marybeth Bizjak

DISPLAY: California

This shop sells artisan goods made in California, with a heavy emphasis on Sacramento makers such as Jake Castro (leather goods), Ana Apple (children's apparel) and Cabine (jewelry). There's a nice selection of women's apparel and accessories from women designers and women-owned businesses, along with locally made art, prints and food products such as natural soda syrups from Burly Beverages and condiments from Nasty Sauce. Next door, Display's Annex is a pop-up shop featuring small local vendors, open weekends only (Friday through Sunday). 3433 Broadway; displaycalifornia.com

Rire

Josie Lee was a college student when she opened her first women's boutique in 2013. This is her second Rire location, offering fun, flirty fashions at affordable prices. (Nothing costs more than $60.) The store works with small-scale designers producing fast fashion, and the inventory changes constantly. Products range from message T-shirts and boho-chic dresses to faux fur-lined anoraks, along with journals, tote bags, handmade cards and jewelry. 3330 Broadway; rireboutique.com

Nectar

Owner/artist Janell Lacayo makes original, one-off earrings, necklaces and bracelets at a tiny workbench behind the cash register. She's big on upcycling, incorporating vintage and antique jewelry parts into her hammered-wire designs, with prices ranging from $6 to $200. She also loves natural stones, a passion she acquired as a child on rock digs with her gemologist grandparents. In addition to jewelry, Nectar sells vintage apparel, T-shirts and aprons decorated with bits of old embroidery. 3328 Broadway; collectingnectar.com

Underground Books

This friendly African-American bookstore, operated by former mayor Kevin Johnson's mother (known to all as "Mother Rose"), serves as Oak Park's literary hub. There's local art on the walls and a comfy leather couch for sprawling. Products for sale include adult and children's books about the black experience, greeting cards, handmade dolls and I Love Being Black merchandise. The store hosts book signings, children's story time, a book club, panel discussions and art talks. 2814 35th St.; underground-books.com

The Plant Foundry

Located in what was once a tire store, this urban nursery carries a wide variety of heirloom plants, organic local veggies and herbs, and hard-to-find perennials from Annie's Annuals. The garden shop stocks ergonomic garden tools, hanging terrariums, gardening books, artisanal pottery, greeting cards and garden decor. Out-of-town visitors can pick up packets of interesting and unusual heirloom seeds from Baker Creek, Botanical Interests and Renee's Seeds. 3500 Broadway; plantfoundry.com

Strapping

This whimsical little store is crammed with cards, gifts, toys, housewares and novelties such as naughty lollypops. (Consider it Spencer's for the hipster set.) You'll also find "queer clothing" and apparel designed by store owner Susan Stewart for small-framed people such as women and trans men. Strapping is not a "bougie boutique," says Stewart, describing the store as fun, accessible, affordable and inclusive. "This is a very judgment-free shopping experience." 3405 Broadway; strappingsacramento.com

The Brickhouse

Located in an old sheet metal shop, this rustic art gallery and community gathering spot offers an off-the-grid approach to the arts. There are open-mic nights, poetry slams, storytelling events and more. The gallery focuses on established and emerging artists in Northern California, with exhibitions, workshops, classes and demonstrations. An outdoor space with a fireplace provides visitors a pleasant spot to hang out. Open Thursday through Saturday. 2837 36th St.; thebrickhouseartgallery.com
